Notes

I believe that water is one of the most important environmental issues in New Zealand currently. Others believe that as well, and that is why so many local people and overseas countries are trying to access our pure water for monetary gain. We need to recognise where harm is occurring and to put in place really strong regulations to prevent this. This may include surveying water sources and putting in place individual covenants on special water sources such as the Te Waikoropupu Springs to ensure they are not harmed. I believe that without these actions, our country will continue to be spoiled.
