Clause

The specific parts of the application that my/our submission relates to are:

Notes

This submission relates to protecting the aquifer its inputs and outlets [e.g. pupu springs] from the activities of the rapidly increasing number of human beings in the area. Recognising that the current protection measures have their roots in a time when the NZ population was only around 1 million. Recognising that the current NZ population is around 4 million along with around 4 million tourists. Recognising then that protection measures must be planned for a future New Zealand of maybe 8 million people including tourists, not very far into the future.
