Notes

Over many years, if not decades, I have taken Overseas visitors and grandchildren to see these spectacular springs. I have felt such pride and priveledge to be able to show such pristine water and its supportive environment to visitors and the generation following along behind me. I try to instill in them the absolute need for all of us to protect such wonderful and unique sites. It would be a travesty,, if the need for the dollar, was to wipe out for all time, such a valuable reminder that nature itself is a provider of imeasurable bounty if only we can appreciate and value it. We need to listen and learn from mother or father nature before we consign ourselves the environment and the planet to the rubbish bin. Penelope Isherwood
