Notes

I remember visiting the springs 40 years ago with our young children and thought them beautiful then. I returned about 18 months ago with my daughter and her 2 young children and was so delighted to see the improvements to the site, the information we could read and the beautiful bush we walked through (and noticing birds in the bush!). The springs were again so clear and clean and I felt it to be a very special place which needs to be kept that way. This is one of New Zealand's very special places and needs to be protected from anything which would destroy them.
