hi there I have a small scale [hobby dredging] claim in Otago. most years I do not recover enough gold to pay my crown mineral fees, I don't think we are water consumers at all as my small dredge sucks water from the river , runs it over a sluice and immediately returns it to the river, no gravels are taken either. I guess we fall in the same category as a jet boat , will jetboats be required to get resource consent.? as many claims are small scale hobby claims with no environmental impact I fail to see why any costly changes should be made . I hope the ORC see reason and leave things be. thankyou Rodger

State what decision you want the Otago Regional Council to make:

(e.g. amend policy 'y' to say....)

amend policy to say water consumers

Give reasons for the decision you want made:

(e.g. I want policy 'y' changed because...)

this is a hobby which already actually costs me money, i don't make a profit , and fishermen , swimmers , rafters , kayakers , duck hunters and other users who also don't consume water , would then fall into the same category
